

Excerpt from Archaeological Review, Vol. 2 The idea of a general ethnographical museum was due to the French geographer Jomard. About the close of last century the desire for such a collection had found expression here and there, but roused no interest. It was not till Jomard with great energy pointed out the importance of having a museum for the non-historic peoples outside of Europe, that steps were taken to realise the design. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy. In rare cases, an imperfection in the original, such as a blemish or missing page, may be replicated in our edition. We do, however, repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully; any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works.
