

Life Unbolted is both a memoir and a challenging lifestyle. We can only reach the finish line if we dare to venture onto the starting line. There are many paths one might take in the course of a lifetime, and the path back to the starting line of life is, perhaps, the most elusive. To return to the time when tiny winglets sprouted from your shoulders, allowing for a departure from the nest, into the sky to meet your destiny requires faith, determination, and endless amounts of patience. You also need a burning desire to wander unbolted beyond the sometimes jaded expectations of others. The journey was long, needed and sometimes brutal. The result, however, was a recharged life, which allowed me to emerge completely refreshed, optimistic and filled with enough strength, speed and desire to pick a fight with the forces of greed. One of the many gifts of this journey was a vision of how to lay an adaptive foundation for the coming generation – that is, an entirely new way of looking at energy. I call the plan, “Entity-Specific Power,” a rather mundane title for something that could change the entire way we generate and supply energy. The other gift – the greatest one – was learning that a life of faith begins with eyes closed, placing one foot in front of another, and walking forward believing that you will be guided – and since life is short, there’s no better time than right now to start. I hope you will step inside and join me on that journey.
